ANGLERS' FLIES.

The Earth Ransacked For Feathers and Hairs to Make Them.

There are trout and salmon fishers who pay several thousand dollars a year for the "flies" alone. Few persons can learn to the artificial flies—knitting hairs that can hardly be seen—so the skilled fly maker commands high wages. The materials, too, are costly, for the earth is ransacked for feathers and hairs, and one hair wrong makes "all the difference."

The business done in mouse whiskers is considerable, for they are used in the making of a wonderful fly, the "gray knut," and they are expensive, costing nearly 2 cents a whisker. Trout rise much better at mouse whisker flies than at the same "knut" dressed in junglecock hackles, which look much like them.

Bears' eyebrows, being stiff and exactly the right shade, are used in a fly that has killed quantities of salmon. These eyebrows come from the Himalayan brown bear and cost about $1.50 a set.

There are agents all over the world searching tropical forests for the right birds to supply fly hackles. One of the most sought after skins is that of the rare "green screamer," an African bird about the size of a hen, which has a tiny bunch of feathers on each shoulder that is worth $15 a bunch to the fly maker. One of these birds supplies only feathers enough to make rings for half a dozen flies.

There is no limit to the enthusiasm of an artistic fly tier, who will use hair from his own eyelashes to finish off an "extra special" fly. Babies' hair is much sought after if it is of the right shade—golden yellow—for all the lighter salmon flies, and one curl will make a dozen first class flies.

It takes an expert only fifteen minutes to turn out a fly which consists of a tiny hook with wings of Egyptian dove feather, legs of fox hair and a body of mountain fur wound around with a thread of yellow silk. A carelessly made fly will have neither legs nor "feelers," but the true expert adds the legs and puts on a pair of long "feelers" of cat hair, white at the tips. All these tiny details will be exactly in their places and so firmly tied to the hook that the fly will take half a dozen strong fish and be none the worse.—Chicago Tribune.

BURNED PAPER MONEY.

Source of Great Profit to the Government and Banks.

At the redemption windows of the treasury and of the subtreasuries of the country any silver coin that has not been mutilated willfully and which still is recognizable as from the mints of the United States will be redeemed at face value, this in spite of the fact that the silver in the worn coin may not be worth half its face value. As to gold coin, the government stands up for its value, and it is worth its metal value. It may melt $1,000 in gold coins and the mint will pay $1,000 in new twenty dollar gold pieces for the mass. But the ashes of $1,000 in paper currency is without value.

In the case of the paper currency two-fifths of a note must be presented if it shall be redeemed or a new note issued, and, no matter what the evidence may be as to total destruction of this paper currency, the government regards it as the holder's individual loss with which it is no further concerned. Five may melt $1,000 worth of silver coins and it is worth its metal value. It may melt $1,000 in gold coins and the mint will pay $1,000 in new twenty dollar gold pieces for the mass. But the ashes of $1,000 in paper currency is without value.

In the thousands of fires over the country every year involving office buildings, factories, business houses and family residences an untold total of legal tender notes of all kinds are destroyed. Every piece of such paper lost is a loss to the holder and gain to the government or to a national bank. It is a promissory note hopelessly lost to the holder. It is even more, for in many cases an individual man might redeem his debt obligation if he were assured by the holder of it that the piece of paper to which he had signed his name had been destroyed by accident and by no chance could turn up again against him.—Chicago Tribune.

GOLD LEAF.

Made Now Practically as It Was Made Nineteen Centuries Ago.

In an article on gold leaf in the Magazine of Commerce John Mastin says that just as the date of the discovery of gold is too remote even to be guessed at so is the origin of gold leaf lost in antiquity.

On some of the most ancient mummies discovered gold leaf has been used on the skin, tongue, teeth, etc., and in some instances on the coffin also. It also appears on tombs, monuments and the like, and, strange to say, though gilding with "thin sheets of hammered gold" and "skins of gold"—otherwise gold leaf—was known to be practiced at least in the eighth century B. C., the process of bringing the gold into these thin sheets or "skins" was, at any rate in the eleventh century A. D., substantially the same as that used today, no advance whatever having been made in the intervening nine centuries.

Further, on some of the Grecian pottery of the fifth century the gold leaf used is as thin as that used today, so that in results obtained also we have not advanced in the least, but still keep practically to the same average thickness as that used on the Egyptian coffins of the third century A. D. and most of the Greek vases of the fifth.

A. G. L. WAREHOUSE ON RIVER FRONT

Collapsed With Great Damage this Morning.

The long galvanized iron warehouse of the A. C. L. Ry. on the river front in rear of the old Florida Southern buildings on River street, collapsed with a terrible crash at 8:20 this morning.

The building was 180 feet long on the river and 40 feet deep. It was loaded with heavy merchandise, and used as a storeroom by the W. A. Merryday Co., the Kennerly Hardware Co. and Wm. Turnage.

The Merryday Co. had an immense amount of crate material in store, the bulk of which will be saved unless there should come a rain.

The Kennerly H'd'w Co. had stored several car loads of sash, doors, and wire goods. Too early to compute damage.

Wm. Turnage had two car loads of wagons and other heavy material. His loss will be considerable.

The building was loaded to the roof.

The underpinning had been neglected by the railroad company and—the building inspector.

Holy Moses at Orpheum.

Every seat at the Orpheum Theater was taken on Monday and again on Tuesday night.

But Moses and the bull rushes was on the first two named nights, and probably accounts for the extra attendance. It was not known before that Moses was such a favorite in Palatka.

The life of this old patriarch from the time he was rescued from the bull rushes by Pharaoh's charming daughter, until he disappeared in the mountain, was depicted by very cleverly shown moving pictures.

In fact the pictures all this week have been exceptionally good.

And so was the clever work of Harry Louine, the singing and talking coin and card manipulator.

For the balance of this week in addition to the pictures, there will be Gus Denicke in music and comedy sketches.

Beginning next Monday night there will be a specially clever vaudeville act by the Adde Musical Comedy Company.

The Orpheum is growing daily in popularity, due in great measure to the improved class of attractions—and the low price of seats—5 and 10 cents—together with the fact that it is a very comfortable place to spend a hot evening.

May Become Pastor.

Rev. P. O. Cason of Apalachicola will officiate at the First Baptist church next Sunday, both morning and evening, and officials of the church are particularly anxious that all members be present.

Rev. Mr. Cason comes to Palatka with a view to a call to the pastorate. He is a young man of ability who has been some years in the ministry. He was chaplain of the House of Representatives in the Florida Legislature of 1907.

The regular monthly business meeting of the church will be held on Wednesday evening next, Sept. 7th, at which time the matter of calling a pastor will be discussed.

School Change at Crescent City.

Superintendent L. K. Tucker, who only this week returned from his vacation in the mountains of North Carolina, but who, while away, kept close tab on the school situation, advises the News that Miss Amy Kendall who had been appointed principal of the Crescent City high school, has sent in her request to have her appointment withdrawn.

In her place Mr. Tucker has appointed Prof. F. G. Hull late of Apopka. Prof. Hull has a state certificate, is a man in middle life and has had large and successful experience as a teacher. He will be the first gentleman placed in charge of this school in some years.

Lumber Schooners Leave Port.

During the week two schooners have loaded at Palatka with lumber from the Wilson Cypress Co., and sailed. On Monday night the three-masted schooner Marie E. Brown carried out a heavy cargo and yesterday the schooner Annie M. Hudson put on a cargo of 600,000 feet of white pine for Albany.

Long strings of lighters lumber laden from points above Palatka passed down the river Wednesday night.

Coming Florida Orange Crop.

R. P. Burton the sales manager of the Florida Citrus Exchange estimates that the coming Florida crop will be about as follows: Grapefruit, full crop; tangerines, 75 per cent of a crop; oranges, 60 per cent of a crop. The quality is reported good, and the sizes large.

Took an Unfair Advantage.

Mrs. Dorkins—Yesterday I called Mrs. Grundage's attention to the fact that she had left the gate between our back yards open and that her chickens had come through and scratched up our flower beds, and she looked as if she would have liked to bite my head off. How foolish it is for people to get angry when you remind them that they have been careless about something they had no business to overlook!

Mr. Dorkins—I am glad to hear you say that, Marfa. You won't mind if I mention that when I came home last night I found that you'd left both the back doors unlocked.

Mrs. Dorkins—Yes; you're always watching to see if you can't catch me in some little fault, and it makes you perfectly happy when you do!—New York Tribune.

Warmth Not Wanted.

"This would be a pleasant world if people put more warmth—genuine warmth—in their letters," said the man of sentiment.

"I don't agree with you," replied his worried friend, "there was a warmth about some of the business letters I got this morning that I didn't at all like."

A TRIP IN MAMMOTH CAVE.

By L. A. Smith.

On arriving at the Mammoth Cave we found a quaint and interesting old-time hotel. Its stone chimneys and long colonnade, from which one looks out on a grove of oaks and cedars and well-kept lawn, together with its rustic surroundings, make a most delightful resort for those who do not demand the privileges of a city, in the heart of a primitive forest.

Going down a winding path and flight of stone steps, we came to the iron gate in the mouth of the cavern where, in 1802, the legendary bear was chased and followed by the hunter, Hutchins, which accident gave the world of letters and science the Mammoth Cave, perhaps the greatest natural wonder in the world. The writer will not attempt to describe in detail the journey through this mighty cavern. Great writers, poets and artists have felt the inspiration of its grandeur, eternal darkness, and awful silence. We were a party of 24, entered the cave suit, armed with a torch, marching through its long aisles with lofty ceilings, beneath its great domes, and again stooping through narrow, tortuous passages.

If you want an experience both laughable and strange, climb through the cork screw and the fat man's misery. Soon after entering we saw the vats and pits and wooden pipe lines laid by the pioneers for the mining of salt petre, used in the manufacture of gun powder for the war of 1812.

We entered a great theater, with its lofty dome, gallery and natural stage upon which Edwin Booth once thrilled his audience with selections from the immortal bard. This place was named in honor of that occasion, "Booth's Amphitheater."

The voice of Jennie Lind once reverberated along the majestic walls. Imagine grand opera 350 feet below the surface!

We stood at the bridal altar, famed by the beautiful staid and staid, where numerous weddings have taken place. The first one was of a lady who had saved her life by clinging to a man on the face of the earth. But the cave management allow no more weddings, as they claim it was "running matrimony in the ground." We enter the Star Chamber. The guide commands absolute silence, and as we gaze about the apparent walls, the great chasm, we see the twinkling stars in heaven, then flying clouds and the gathering storm, the flash of lightning, then total darkness. Soon we feel the approach of day as we hear the cawing of the morning; and the faint glimmer of dawn in the east which gradually increases as the guide's voice in this is the work and skill of a most competent guide.

We saw the Dead Sea, the river Styx and the bottomless pit. And as we stepped aboard the boat on the Echo river I thought of Charon and the lost souls. But we were not to dwell on such things. The crowd was singing "My Old Kentucky Home." The most extraordinary efforts in echo are produced here. The guide will sound a note and the cavern takes it up and carries it on until it dies in the gloom like the sweetest notes of pipe organ.

In Colossal Cavern we saw a great staid 91 feet long, known as the Henry Clay monument—a fitting memorial for Kentucky's greatest son. About this staid we descend into "Colossal dome" till we stand on level ground 389 feet below the surface of the earth. Here the guide by means of a wire hoisted a blazing torch 179 feet to the top of the dome. Imagine, if you can, the grandeur of this scene.

In all the three trips we made we were under ground about fourteen hours, probably having 28 miles new style and the same ground, not feeling much fatigue, as the temperature is always 55 degrees. We were accompanied by Dr. Beckman a geologist and lecturer, also by Mr. Anzer of the L. & N. Ry. who had charge of our party.

As we approached the entrance on coming out and the light of day gleamed down from above, and the blue vault of sky stretched above us, I thought how truly the "Heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth His handiwork."

What Store Windows Tell.

It is not a bad idea for citizens to take a squint into the show windows of live Palatka merchants as they pass along the streets. They will frequently see some rare bargains worth their while.

For instance, there is a new style and desirable kitchen ware in the window at Turnage's hardware store that ought to interest every house wife, and the prices—5, 10, 15, and 20 cents should sell a lot of them in Palatka.

In the window of the Fearnside Clothing Co. this week is a display of men's trousers. They are all pants usually sold at from $2.50 to $3.50, but which, for obvious reasons this firm has marked to the attractive price of $1.48. Last week and the week before this firm had a window display of fine umbrellas at 98c. For a time this company is making a general reduction of 33 1/3 per cent on all summer weight goods.

In M. S. Brown's window there is a display of $4 and $5 low quarter men's shoes at the uniform price of $2.50 while they last. Also in another window a class of straw hats at $5 each.

Miss Kate Lucas has a window full of choice embroideries at cost.

Base Ball Next Monday.

Next Monday being Labor Day and a general holiday, a game of baseball has been arranged between Crescent City and Palatka's best teams. The line-up of the clubs will be as follows:

Crescent City	Palatka
Norton	Julian Calhoun
Allen	Fred Merrill
Hunter	1st b. Val Thomas
Bolton	2d b. Geo. Selden
Jones	3d b. Frank Davidson
Varnes	s.s. Chas. Anderson
Kinard	l.f. Grill Merryday
Walker	c.f. H.M. Fearnside
Carledge	r.f. Chas. Bart

The Crescent City team has been playing a number of games during the season and is a strong team, therefore, a good game may be expected. It is hoped that a big crowd will turn out to see the only good ball game between white teams this season. It is expected that a good sized crowd of young people will accompany the visiting team.

CAMPAIGN OPENS NEXT THURSDAY

By Quartette of College Students—Prize Orators, All of Them.

Also a Vocal Quartette of Rare Ability.

The campaign for state wide prohibition will be opened in Palatka on Thursday evening next, Sept. 8th.

The meeting will be at the Howell Theater, which has been generously donated for the occasion by Mr. R. C. Howell.

The meeting will be in charge of the College Students Campaign Club, which is making a three months' campaign under the auspices of the Florida Anti-Saloon League.

Composing the quartette are Mr. Doyle E. Carlton of Wauchula, H. C. Garwood of Green Cove Springs, A. Y. Milan of Jacksonville, and Frank Widenmeyer of Deland.

These young men have already made their mark as orators of great ability. Young Widenmeyer was one of the prize winners at the Florida Inter-collegiate oratorical contest, and also anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg early in the present season.

These young men discuss the liquor problem from the moral, economic, legal and criminal standpoints, and give you substantial reasons why the business of vending alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes should be outlawed. They will tell you why this should be done in the interests of the coming generation.

This quartette of young men has been campaigning since July 1st, and has covered a large part of the state. Everywhere they are getting large audiences and flattering notices from the press.

Speaking of their meeting at Starke recently the Bradford County Telegraph says:

"Those who went up to the court house Tuesday evening to hear the temperance orators from Stetson University were agreeably surprised at the manner in which the entertainment—for such it was—was conducted. Instead of some wild-eyed fanatics denouncing the demon rum, its makers, sellers and users, they found four prepossessing young men, who stood up and sang. It was not a song of the 'Father, dear father' persuasion, but one of exquisite melody, faultlessly rendered. More songs and chants followed, after which Mr. A. Y. Milan, of Jacksonville, spoke. More songs followed, and then Mr. Frank Widenmeyer, of Deland, spoke. They made no attempt at oratory, there were no eyes raised to heaven and voices trembling with feigned emotion, which so many temperance speakers assume; the speaking was logical and convincing, the statistics telling, the quotations used were the opinions given by supreme court justices and other eminent men. The liquor question was reviewed in all its aspects in such a masterly, agreeable manner that every word went to the heart, and the arguments were so convincing that they were bound to accomplish their purpose.

Two of the quartet, Messrs. Doyle E. Carlton, of Wauchula, and H. C. Garwood, of Green Cove Springs, did not speak, as on account of the threatening weather it was desired not to prolong the meeting. Every seat was occupied by delighted hearers and every song and address was honored with deafening applause. The songs, 'The Melon on the Vine' and 'Your Necktie is Up Behind' were especially well received. Each one of these young gentlemen, if he gave up his studies, could earn a good salary as a singer."

Writing to Superintendent C. L. Collins, of the Florida Anti-Saloon League, T. F. Calloway of Orlando, says: "The College Students' Campaign Quartette gave their concert lecture entertainment here last Wednesday night. The opera house was crowded, including the galleries, and many standing in the rear. The program was not only unique and entertaining, but was the means of doing much effective temperance work and that to people who would not have been present but for the entertainment feature of the evening. The boys are filled with temperance enthusiasm and facts and, as you know, I heard many commendatory expressions."

"I just felt like I wanted to let you know that it seems to me, personally, a wise stroke for the League to send the quartette out."

Of course the admission is free and it is hoped that Palatka will give the quartette a rousing reception.

Pomona Housebreakers Held.

On Friday last week Hon. W. S. Middleton, as deputy sheriff at Pomona, arrested Nathaniel Vincent, Bob James, Will Ashwood and Harrison Williams, all young negroes, on the charge of breaking into houses in that section. These negroes were all in the employ of Mr. Middleton at his camp near Pomona.

For some time back complaints have been made that houses that had been closed for the summer were being entered, and Mr. Middleton as deputy sheriff of the place was keeping an eye out to discover if possible the guilty parties. He found some of the stolen property on the negroes above named and they were arrested and brought to Palatka. On Monday before Justice J. F. Marshall all four of them pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and all were remanded to jail to await trial at the fall term of the circuit court.

Mr. Middleton is to be congratulated on his success in breaking up this gang of young criminals. After arresting all young negroes on the charge of breaking into houses in that section, he sent him hand cuffs, and on their arrival, Mr. Middleton in person brought them to Palatka.

Blind Mosquitoes Here Again.

People on the down town streets last night from 8:30 on were made aware that the blind mosquitoes were again coming up from the river. Wherever there was light the pesky things could be seen. They were not thick, but there was enough to make one apprehensive that there might be more.

They came in July last year and by this time of year are all gone. Owing to the lateness of the season the opinion prevails that the pests will not be numerous or remain long.

JUDGE ROWTON PASSES AWAY

End Comes Peacefully to Old and Honored Citizen.

Justice C. I. Rowton, whose illness was reported in last Friday's News, died on Saturday at noon at his residence on Third street, surrounded by members of his family.

The funeral obsequies were held at the family residence Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the interment was in West View cemetery. The remains were escorted to the grave by the Red Men in regalia and the services were conducted by Rev. H. Duttill according to the impressive ritual ceremony of that order. Besides the members of this order, and the members of the family, and were many friends of the deceased, and there were many beautiful floral offerings.

The pall bearers were Messrs. E. E. Dodge, E. O. Causey, C. M. Livingston, W. H. Minton, D. P. Hancock and E. T. Redding.

Judge Rowton survived by the widow, to whom, he had lived until next Thursday, the 8th inst., he would have been married 50 years; three daughters and two sons. The daughters are Mrs. Robt. Eville and Mrs. C. H. Wigg of this city, and Mrs. Wm. Starr of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; the sons, Chas. E. Rowton, a well-known stationer of this city, and W. H. Rowton of Jacksonville. All were present at the funeral except Mrs. Starr.

Judge Rowton was born in England, and came to this country 40 years ago, settling in New York where he continued in business until 1879, when he came to Palatka. For a long time he was the city ticket agent for the old Florida Southern Railway. He was appointed a justice of the peace for this district to fill a vacancy and two years later elected to the office which he re-elected twice and serving in all about 14 years. His office was in the court house and he therefore came to be one of the best known men in the county, and by all he was greatly esteemed.

He was prominently identified with the Improved Order of Red Men and with the Old Settlers' Association, and Great Chief of Records of the first named order for Florida and the Sachem of Okechumkee Tribe in this city. At the time of his death he was chief of records of that tribe, a position he had filled for many years. The members of Okechumkee tribe had prepared as a surprise, a gold emblem which it had been their purpose to present to him last Friday, the occasion of his 80th birthday, but owing to his illness had postponed the presentation ceremony until his 50th wedding anniversary next week. But Judge Rowton had no time to plan for his 80th birthday.

Judge Rowton was a good citizen and a faithful Christian gentleman, and the memory of his kindly deeds will long be remembered by the people of Palatka. He was a consistent member of the Wesleyan church, and for many years one of its deacons. He had a great interest in the Sunday school and some 25 years ago was superintendent of Wilkes mission in Palatka Heights. The sincere sympathy of the people of Palatka is with the bereaved family.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to return our thanks for the sympathy and kindly assistance of the people of Palatka in our recent bereavement. Mrs. C. I. Rowton & family.

INTERLACHEN ITEMS.

Mesdames Gillett and Jenkins, accompanied by Master Ed. and Miss Ruth Gillett, made up a merry shopping party in Palatka last week.

J. H. Wylie, the "good roads man," was also in evidence among the visitors to Palatka.

Dr. Johnson of Palatka was called professionally to this neighborhood a few days since, and owing to the bad condition of the roads incident to the recent heavy rains, and it being necessary to come by rail instead of automobile as usual.

Miss Erma Baker came home from Boston to spend some Sunday with her parents, having completed two weeks' work in her new school.

M. L. Byrne, a knight of the grip from Jacksonville, is taking the route trip for J. S. L. Fils, who is ill and unable to
